TELL ME WHY

Solomon Gitau
NAKURU, RIFT VALLEY, KENYA

14-year-old poet,
soccer player,
A+ student,
future pilot,
IHSAN charter member

I am in the middle of the desert,
where dangerous animals are after me.
No one cares about me,
No one thinks about me.
Tell me why, tell me why.

In my dreams I ask myself
what can I do to become a good man in the future?
Troubles are after me.
Tell me why, tell me why.

There is a big river which separates the land of rich people and poor.
They mistrust us.
They persecute us.
Tell me why, tell me why.

But the sky is blue, because my little heart desires love.
How many times have you thought about us?
Children dying because of suffering and pain.
No water, no sanitation.
Tell me why, tell me why.

My life is such a sad story.
When I think about it, tears of sadness run down my face.
I have no one to dry them
for me because I am an orphan.
Tell me why, tell me why.

I give you my little heart and ask you to take part in my story.

IN MY WORLD

I am not about Aid.

I am about ideas.
Harnessing opportunities.
Sharing knowledge.
Forging new technologies.
Empowering individuals.
Helping corporations express their talent.
Networking the planet.
Giving a voice to disadvantaged communities.

Finding sustainable answers to global questions.

Bridging religions, ethnicities,
nationalities, and classes.

Attempting everything.

Stopping at nothing.

Choosing to make a difference.

Being a part of someone else's story.

I am not about Aid.
